

Biography

Jose Miguel Mulet, profesor de Biotecnología, Universidad Politécnica de Valencia

Born in Denia in 1973, José Miguel Mulet holds a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Valencia (1996) and doctor in the field of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (2001). From 2003 to 2006 worked at the biozentrum of the University of Basel (Switzerland).

Since 2008 he is a professor in the Department of Biotechnology of the Higher Technical School of Agricultural Engineering and the Natural Environment (ETSIAMN) at the Universitat Politècnica de València and directs the Laboratory of cellular growth and abiotic stress of the Institute of Molecular and Cellular Biology of Plants (IBMCP), joint center of the CSIC and the University of the Basque Country.

He has published various research articles in scientific journals and popular, and is the author of the blog "Los productos naturales ¡vaya timo!", through which you can read in advance of the first chapter of the book.